

Nuclear Missile Striking Force In NATO Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A message to President Kennedy from President Charles de Gaulle of France appeared today to open the way for detailed exploratory talks on formation of a NATO striking force armed with Polaris nuclear missiles.

De Gaulle's answer is expected to be discussed Saturday at Palm Beach, Fla., when Kennedy confers with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Thomas K. Finletter, the President's representative to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said Thursday night they would talk about "NATO problems."

The prospects for creation of a Polaris missile force for NATO are not rated very high at present. But U.S. officials said that De Gaulle's message was at least not discouraging and the project which was launched last month in the Nassau conference is therefore over its first hurdle.

At Nassau Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan agreed that the United States would furnish Polaris submarine missiles to Britain as a substitute for the abandoned Skybolt air-borne missile which Britain was promised several years ago. But they also agreed that the British force, and a matching American force, would be put under or made available for NATO control.

Kennedy then sent a message to De Gaulle offering France the same deal for Polaris missiles that he had made with Macmillan. His over-all policy purpose is the eventual formation of an international NATO nuclear striking force as an alternative to the continued development of national nuclear forces such as Britain has, France is building, and other allies may undertake in the future.

Since the initial project would require U.S. and British and if possible close French cooperation, De Gaulle's response to Kennedy's proposal was considered by the President and his advisers to be of the utmost importance.

No Pay Closes Vandalia School

VANDALIA (AP) — The Christmas vacations of 173 students at Vandalia Community School were extended again today as their teachers — who have not been paid since Nov. 30 — stayed off the job.

"It's not a strike," explained principal Walter Tiller. He said he and the school's 10 teachers and five other school department workers had decided to stay at home until the back pay situation improves.

The teachers and Supt. George Sedlacek held an informal meeting at the school Thursday before announcing they would not resume classes. Tiller indicated the situation might continue for several days.

"We just want our back pay and feel we have been most patient in waiting for it," said Tiller.

He explained the school district was able to meet only half of its $3,000 bi-weekly payroll on Nov. 30 and that it had missed two complete pay days since.

The district school board said it had collected about $4,000 in taxes and offered that as partial payment to the teachers. The teachers said, however, they felt they were entitled to their full pay.

Vandalia school, built in 1958, has grades from the kindergarten through the 11th. It has been adding a grade each year and next year is due to add the 12th, or high school senior's grade.

Vandalia area voters rejected last summer a millage proposal to add more operating funds for the school. A proposed annexation with the adjoining Cassopolis school district was defeated four years ago, but will be voted on again Jan. 30.

Vandalia is in southwest Lower Michigan.

Federal Charges Face 2 Youths In Indiana Kidnaping

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike Thursday ordered the removal of two youths to Indiana to face Federal charges of kidnaping and of transporting a stolen car across state lines.

Judge Pike ordered Kent Mishler, 20, of Nappanee, Ind., and Douglas Hanna, 19, of Goshen, Ind., turned over to Federal authorities of the northern district of Indiana.

The youths allegedly fled to Chicago Sunday after overpowering two Indiana officers and a citizen in Nappanee and leaving them handcuffed to a windmill near Mottville, Mich., in 12-degree weather.

The two were seized at a road-block Sunday night after police were informed they were on their way to the city.

Indiana state authorities said armed robbery and burglary charges also would be added to Federal charges against the youths.

Housing Equality Action Pledged By Gov. Romney

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney told the Metropolitan Conference on Open Occupancy Thursday he would use the power of the State to bring equality in housing to Michigan.

The governor, who added to his prepared text because he said it was not strong enough for the occasion, said he believes Michigan's climate is right for legislative action in the field of civil rights.

Romney told the crowd of more than 1,200 that "discrimination is our most urgent domestic problem."

He stressed repeatedly that the decision to treat all men equally is an individual responsibility, a matter of spiritual and moral ethics.

"I believe there is a sufficiently broad acceptance of equality in housing, education and employment to permit appropriate action in some areas of state legislation," he said.

Romney said the proposed new Constitution will give Michigan "the strongest Civil Rights guarantee of any State in the nation." The proposed document calls for a bi-partisan Civil Rights Commission.

"Like the existing Fair Employment Practices Commission, the Civil Rights Commission will depend mainly on persuasion, conciliation, and education," he said. "The FEPC has proved that such techniques are successful in processing hundreds of cases without litigation. But when persuasion fails, the State can use its power of regulation and enforcement."

He added that when the new Constitution is approved he would "appoint members of the commission on the basis of demonstrated interest, moral courage and competence. I shall recommend appropriations for sufficient staff and a vigorous educational and enforcement program."

Commenting on the speech, Detroit Councilman William H. Patrick, a Negro, said he liked some things that were said but added, "I thought he equivocated by putting the force of the State on the acceptance of the Constitution. As titular head, his whole force and prestige should be behind the issue despite the political reality of the Con-Con issue."

Raises Proposed For Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration will ask Congress to raise the pay of active duty servicemen and reservists an average of 14.4 per cent.

The estimated annual cost of the proposed pay increase is about $1.75 billion. About four million persons would get the boost.

President Kennedy has given his approval to the plan, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday. It will be submitted to Congress this month.

The estimated cost is large, McNamara said, "but I believe it to be fully justified."

"Remote and isolated duty" pay for both officers and enlisted men would be substituted for "sea and foreign duty pay." The enlistment bonus for enlisted men the military wants to keep because of special skills would give way to a variable career incentive pay. The retirement pay system would be based on cost-of-living changes instead of merely on length of service.

The first reaction from Capitol Hill was cautious.

Kennedy Attends Sen. Kerr Rites

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President John F. Kennedy and other government leaders join Oklahomaans today at the funeral of Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.

The funeral is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church where Kerr, a prominent Southern Baptist layman, once taught Sunday school. Dr. Herschel Hobbs, pastor of the church and president of the Southern Baptist Convention, will officiate.

Kerr, 66, died of a heart attack New Year's day in a Washington hospital.

President Kennedy was scheduled to arrive at nearby Tinker Air Force Base at 2 p.m. from Palm Beach, Fla., where he has been vacationing. He was to go directly to the church in the company of Gov. J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma. Edmondson is expected to resign this weekend, leaving the way open for Lt. Gov. George Nigh to appoint him to the Senate.

Kerr's term doesn't expire until 1967 but his successor's appointment will extend only until the 1964 general election.

Funeral Services For Jack Carson Will Be Saturday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Funeral services will be conducted in nearby Glendale Saturday for actor Jack Carson, who died of cancer Wednesday at his San Fernando Valley home.

Dr. Raymond Lindquist, pastor of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, will officiate. The services will be held at the Wee Kirk of the Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial Park and will be followed by cremation and private interment.

Actor Dennis Morgan, a close friend of Carson, will be one of the pallbearers.

Carson, 52, is survived by his widow, Sandra Tucker Carson; two children, John Jr. and Kathy; by a previous marriage; his mother, Elsa Carson, and a brother Bob.

Thaw Threatens Floods In Britain

LONDON (AP) — A dripping thaw spread across southern England today, promising relief from the deep freeze engulfing the country since Christmas.

The thaw brought a new threat of severe flooding, as deep snow began to melt in the south. And an old enemy, fog, blanketed wide areas of Surrey, Kent and Sussex.

London also woke to traditional fog, but weather men forecast that it would drift away during the day.

Sub-freezing temperatures still held parts of western and northern Britain in their grip. More snow fell early today in Herefordshire and Scotland.

But for the first time since the century's worst snow began Dec. 26, several counties in the south and in the Midlands reported all highways were passable.

The snowing still spread far into Western Europe.

A steady fall drifted down on Frankfurt, and there was no traffic beyond the city borders. It rained, too. Icebreakers kept the Rhine open to shipping.

Heavy snow also fell in Vienna, and there was a danger of avalanches in the Austrian Alps.

Drifting snow blocked many roads in Denmark.

The industrial center of Lille, in northern France, was virtually paralyzed because of ice-covered roads. Snow isolated several villages in the Calais area.

Norwegians huddled up against their third coldest winter of the 20th century.

Sub-freezing temperatures were reported from all over Sweden. In southern Sweden snow halted traffic.

Guido's wife has described him as leader of the gang which preyed on wealthy families in the Chicago area, then tortured their victims.

Guido, 41, is on trial with Frank Yonder, 23, for the May 23 robbery. One victim was badly beaten and his wife and two maids were tortured with lighted matches and cigarettes.

Guido Thursday told the criminal court he first heard of the robbery nine days after it happened. Guido testified he heard of it from Yonder, who, he said, admitted the robbery.

Guido said his wife and Yonder were responsible for the crime, and that he fled the city only because she told him the police were going to shoot him on sight.

Guido and Yonder were arrested in Michigan Aug. 4.

Fans And Stars Attend Memorial For Dick Powell

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many famous Hollywood personalities were expected to join hundreds of ordinary movie and television fans today at memorial services for actor Dick Powell in nearby Beverly Hills.

The police department assigned extra officers to control the crowd at All-Saints Episcopal church where the funeral will be.

Powell, a many-sided giant of the entertainment world, died Wednesday night of cancer. He was 58. He died at his Beverly Hills apartment as his wife, actress June Allyson, sat at his side.

Powell's remains were to be cremated at Forest Lawn Memorial Park — at the same hour the memorial services were being held.

Powell's death came five hours after the death of another Hollywood celebrity, actor Jack Carson, who died at his suburban home, also of cancer, will be buried Saturday.

Three weeks ago two other famed actors, Charles Laughton and Thomas Mitchell, also died of cancer.

Amish Farmers Leaving Iowa In Education Dispute

INGERSOLL, Ont. (AP) — Several Amish farmers are settling in southwest Ontario because of a controversy with Iowa authorities over education.

The John Borntriger family of eight, from Iowa, unloaded a van of furniture at a 200-acre farm they bought in the Putnam area Thursday. The family had moved 10 horses and farm equipment earlier.

At least nine farms have been purchased in the area by Amishmen from Iowa.

Eight Amishmen accepted three-day jail sentences in Iowa recently rather than pay $10 fines for refusing to hire state-accredited teachers for two schools.

A Canadian immigration spokesman said Thursday the Amish will have to comply with Ontario's education laws.

Copper Refinery Is Damaged By Fleeing Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Katangan President Moise Tshombe was reported today making a new bid for negotiations as U.N. combat forces prepared to close in on the remnants of his resistance forces at Kolwezi.

But if there are no negotiations and U.N. troops continue advancing, Tshombe declared in an interview, "We shall fight to the end. If Kolwezi falls, then we will fight in the bush."

Tshombe was interviewed in Kolwezi by Adrian Porter of The Associated Press and a Belgian newsmen as U.N. Indian, Irish and Ethiopian troops chased dwindling Katangan forces out of Jadotville without a fight.

Civilian Cars Seized
A rearguard of Tshombe's gendarmes and white mercenaries fled in automobiles seized from civilians, yielding the important copper and cobalt producing center which they had threatened to defend street by street.

The victory left U.N. forces in control of up to three-fourths of Katanga's ore-producing facilities. Tshombe left Jadotville earlier with the main body of Katangans and set up the remnants of his government in Kolwezi, 150 miles northwest of his former capital of Elisabethville and 80 miles beyond Jadotville.

"I hear that (U.N. Secretary-General) U Thant wants me to start negotiations," Tshombe said. "I am disposed to do so."

He said he had been waiting vain for a U.N. plane to pick him up to return to Elisabethville for talks and also for word from the American and British consuls in Elisabethville guaranteeing his safety.

Conditions Rejected
There was no indication here on what Tshombe based his statement that Thant wished negotiations. The secretary-general on Wednesday rejected Tshombe's condition for talks — a cease-fire on the Jadotville road and the consular escort — and said the time was past for negotiations.

He said Tshombe must now indicate by actions, not words, willingness to cooperate in U.N. plans for the Congo's unification.

The only discussions now required, Thant said, involved technical questions.

The general manager of the Union Miniere installations, which process a third of Katanga's copper and two-thirds of its cobalt, said it would take several months to get the plant going again.

The manager, Joseph Derriks, 50, a Belgian said Katangan gendarmes had forced his workers to remove a vital piece of electrical equipment and had blown up installations in some of the processing factories.

Derriks said there had been some fighting between the gendarmes and white mercenaries hired by Tshombe's government because some of the mercenaries tried to defend the plant against the Katangans' sabotage.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant sent Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche to Leopoldville to tighten up on U.N. political, military and administrative operations in the Congo.

U.N. spokesmen in New York said that in the Jadotville operation there had been a serious breakdown in communication and coordination between U.N. headquarters in New York and the Leopoldville office. Diplomatic sources said Thant and Bunche had assured Belgium U.N. troops would not enter the town because of the threat of sabotage.

Only 3,000 Left

Knots of civilians on the Jadotville streets told the incoming troops that the main body of Katanga defenders fled for Kolwezi, 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Philadelphia Will Hotfoot Starlings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia, which once tried to rid City Hall of starlings by broadcasting the bird's distress cry on a public address system, is about to try something else.

Fred I. Corleto, public property commissioner, said today a $19,500 electrical network to give the birds an electronic hotfoot has been installed on roofs and ledges and will be turned on soon.

Dockers Stick To Pay Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators on both sides are reported standing firm in their positions in the dock strike on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Alexander P. Chopin, chairman of the New York Shipping Association, said "I can't see any reason for optimism at this time."

Thomas Gleason, executive vice president of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, said the union will maintain its wage demands "until doomsday."

The statements were made Thursday as negotiations were recessed to today, the 13th day of the strike of 60,000 dock workers which has crippled shipping in ports from Maine to Texas.

James Healy, Harvard University professor of industrial relations, started work Thursday as a fact-finder with the approval of both sides. He conferred with industry and union representatives, and will continue his study of welfare and pension issues in the contract dispute.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz returned to the negotiations Thursday as chief mediator.

The union is seeking a package of 50 cents an hour, including 26 cents in wages, spread over two years. The employers have offered 22 cents an hour in wages over two years. Prestrike basic wages averaged $3.02 an hour.

Vice President Shortens Visit To Wayne State

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has cut down on the length of time for his visit here Sunday because of his attendance at Sen. Robert Kerr's funeral today in Oklahoma City.

Wayne State University, whose year-long Emancipation Centennial celebration will be opened by the vice president, announced Johnson's wife, Lady Bird, will be unable to make the trip.

Johnson's scheduled appearance with Gov. Romney and Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh was cancelled.

Johnson arrives in mid-afternoon. He will meet briefly with Democratic state officials prior to a 4 p.m. Centennial celebration speech. He flies back to Washington at 6 p.m.

Fire Destroys Fruitport Pavilion, State Landmark

FRUITPORT (AP) — Fire today destroyed the Fruitport Pavilion, an entertainment landmark in West Michigan.

The two-story frame structure, built in 1901, went up in flames about 4 a.m. The glare was visible for at least 17 miles.

Harvey Hoogewind, chief of the Fruitport Volunteer Fire Department, estimated loss at more than $50,000. He said no injuries were reported. A cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

The structure was owned by Alfred Lilly of Lansing who took over operations Dec. 24.

The pavilion had its start as home of an electric railway serving Grand Haven, Muskegon and Grand Rapids.

It grew in popularity as a resort center when Fruitport was known for its mineral baths.

Guardsmen Who Have Jobs Rate Retirement Pay

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Thursday that Michigan National Guardsmen serving dual roles as enlisted men and as full-time civilian employees are eligible for state employees' retirement benefits.

Kelley said such employees are eligible because their work for the National Guard may be properly defined as carrying out "a public purpose of the state."

The ruling applies to some 1,000 persons in administrative, maintenance and custodial jobs at National Guard installations in Michigan.

Tourist Inquiries On Summer Trips Arriving Already

It may seem early to plan a summer vacation, but inquiries received daily at the Upper Michigan Tourist Association office in Marquette indicate otherwise.

Advertising placed in newspapers and magazines, or through travel and outdoor shows, in 1962 is still bringing requests for information about vacations in the Upper Peninsula for 1963. Travel bureaus and other agencies which the UMTA regularly supplies with literature also produce a continuing flow of inquiries.

As it does during the summer travel season, the association's office staff promptly services all such requests. Fun-Pacs containing brochures about the region's attractions, together with a directory of accommodations are mailed. In case interest is expressed in a certain area, information about that area is included.

This week an inquiry came from Anchorage, Alaska, telling of plans for a party of four to visit the Sault Ste. Marie and Houghton areas next August.

Council Pushes Beard Growing

"All male electorate" of Escanaba is being called upon by Mayor Harold J. Vanlerberghe and the City Council to grow beards this year in observance of the city's centennial.

A proclamation asking for male cooperation in the beard-growing department was adopted by the Council last night.

The proclamation directed attention to the centennial celebration which will reach its climax the week of July 4, and to the "labor and devotion of the founding fathers who in their wisdom settled this city on the shores of Little Bay de Noc."

While the proclamation doesn't say so, historical facts show that most of the city's founding fathers were bearded. There were no barber shops in the early years anyway and shaving was an annual luxury enjoyed with the spring break-up and a bath in the bay.

The City Council's proclamation urged "all citizens of Escanaba, to enter wholeheartedly in the plans of the celebration of the Centennial."

"Many of the male citizens of Escanaba have already entered into the spirit of the Centennial and are already growing beards, as a sign of their intention to give their full hearted support to the Centennial movement," the Council noted.

The proclamation kicked in Mayor Vanlerberghe's statement that "by authority invested in me as Mayor of the City of Escanaba, do now proclaim that all male electorate, of the City of Escanaba, shall grow beards during the year 1963 in observance of the Centennial Celebration."

Mayor Pro Tem George Rusch presided in the absence of Mayor Vanlerberghe, who with City Manager George Harvey were in Washington on city business.

The Council in other business last night received from the Carnegie Public Library board of trustees an invitation to meet with them at the Library at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 7.

The Council also noted that it had at a previous meeting postponed to Feb. 15 the deadline for the payment of county and school taxes without penalty in the city.

Income Tax Primer

The Form's New Look

Long Form? Short Form?

Q—Under what conditions can the short form (1040A) be filed?
A—If your gross income was less than $10,000 (including your wife if you file a joint return), and if your (and your wife's) total income (except for no more than $200) was from wages or salary on which tax was withheld by your employer.

Q—When must the long form (1040) be used?
A—If you were self-employed you must use the long form. But even if you are an employee, when you have over $10,000 total income or you have more than $200 from sources other than wages and salary subject to withholding, the long form is for you. Also, if you are claiming the status of either "Head of Household" or "Surviving Spouse."

If you wish to claim credit for retirement income or for dividends, or you wish to exclude sick pay (in most instances), you must use the long form. If you itemize deductions (and do not claim the "standard deduction")—you must file the long form. However, you can file a long form, and still claim "standard deduction."

Q—If you were divorced in '62, can you file a joint return?
A—No. You are considered to have been single for all of 1962. But if your divorce is not final as of Dec. 31, and you were not then legally separated, you can file a joint return for 1962 even though you were living separately on that date.

If an individual does not have a Social Security number and is not furnished a form to obtain a number by the Internal Revenue Service during 1962, he must apply for one. Form is available from any district director of Internal Revenue or from any district Social Security office.

Another innovation in your 1962 return is the option to have any overpayment applied to the purchase of series E United States Savings Bonds.

And do bear in mind these often overlooked items about filing your return:

Ford Announces 4 New Models

MONTE CARLO (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. Thursday announced four new models — the 1963½ series.

The new models were redesigned versions of the 1963 series with more power and sleeker roof lines.

From brief descriptions by Ford officials, it appears the company has added more horsepower to three models. The fourth, a Thunderbird, apparently was spruced up inside and out.

Benson Ford, chairman of the Ford dealers' policy board, noted a strong European influence on the new models.

"While Americans were settling for big cars that would carry families and lots of luggage on long trips of relatively high speed over straight roads, we left behind a lot of sheer pleasure in driving," he said. "We became a nation of boulevard drivers. The concept of driving a car as a sport for non-professionals was a concept almost exclusively European."

Tourist Agency Plans '63 Drive

The Upper Michigan Tourist Association has just completed the final phase of its 1962 tourist hospitality campaign and is planning a similar program for 1963.

Preparations for the 1963 event will be discussed by executive board members with personnel from cooperating colleges and universities and representatives of Upper Peninsula newspapers and radio and television stations at a dinner meeting in the Hotel Northland, Marquette, Friday, Jan. 11th.

A joint meeting of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association's executive committee and Advertising Committee UP-MAC will precede the gathering.

Although the program is a tourist project local public attitudes affect every phase of the Upper Peninsula program and economy. The Association again is asking cooperation of educational institutions, mass media, community, chamber of commerce and travel groups.

In 1962 Michigan State University's Extension Service extended major cooperation in the program, known as the "Pays To Know" campaign. Involved were an instructional and educational phase last spring, followed by a survey of establishments serving the traveling public in the summer. Prizes to the best 'hosts' uncovered in the survey were awarded on both county and regional levels.

"Objectives of the 1963 campaign — just as they were in 1962 — will be to help attract and hold visitors in all areas of the Upper Peninsula for longer periods," Ken Slater, Hulbert, UMTA president, declared in announcing the Jan. 11 meeting.

Ionia Prisoner Found Guilty Of Wounding Trooper

IONIA (AP)—A prison inmate from Battle Creek was convicted Thursday in Ionia Circuit Court of an assault charge in connection with the gunshot wounding of a state trooper.

The jury deliberated less than an hour before convicting George N. Myers, 24, of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. It was the second of five choices offered by Judge Leo Bebeau in his instructions.

Myers will be sentenced Jan. 11. He is now serving a term of 7½ to 15 years on a charge of burglary.

Myers was accused of wounding trooper Roderick Lamore who had apprehended him near the scene of a burglary at Clarksville Aug. 29, 1959.

Supreme Court Sets Hoffa Case

DETROIT — Three members of the Teamsters Union who charged that James R. Hoffa, the union president, conspired to force them out of business will receive a full new hearing in Wayne Circuit Court.

Their case, filed more than seven years ago, was dismissed Dec. 25, 1960 by Circuit Judge Carl M. Weideman.

The State Supreme Court has unanimously ordered a hearing in Detroit.

Judge Weideman had agreed with Hoffa's defense that the case should be dropped because of the seven-year statute of limitations — it was filed Dec. 5, 1955 — and because the National Labor Relations Board had declined to review a ruling favorable to Hoffa.

He held that the federal government had reserved to itself any cause of action because the Federal Labor Board had upheld action of one of its regional directors in refusing to issue a complaint.

The Supreme Court, however, ruled that the plaintiffs did not have a full hearing on the charges which they filed against their employer.

They are Milton Stanfill, Paul Smith and Ira Naus, the remainder of six who originally filed the suit.

Though under civil statutes, the suit parallels the criminal trial which recently concluded in Nashville, Tenn., with a deadlocked jury.

The complainants charged that Hoffa and his lieutenant, the late Owen (Bert) Brennan, conspired to terminate a lease agreement with Commercial Carriers, Inc., so that the business could be given to a company held in Hoffa's and Brennan's wives' names.

This company was named Test Fleet and the conspiracy to create it was engaged in by Hoffa, Brennan and Bert Beveridge, a Commercial Carriers official, the complaint said.

Sanfill, Smith and Naus were truck drivers or owners of trucks leased to Commercial Carriers.

They charged that Hoffa and Brennan conspired not only to terminate the lease but to have the union declare unauthorized any strike which might result.

ville, the previous midnight and that Tshombe left with them.

The only resistance was four miles outside the town where 10 Indians were wounded.

Lt. Gen. Kebede Gebre, Ethiopian commander of U.N. forces in the Congo, said the column probably would halt in Jadotville temporarily to consolidate and bring up supplies.

Brig. Reginald Noronha, the Indian commander of the column, estimated Tshombe had 2,000 to 3,000 gendarmes and 100 white mercenaries out of an original force of 18,000 men to make a stand at Kolwezi.

Tshombe's air force, which reportedly included two dozen or more civilian and military planes, is based there. The U.N. claims Swedish Saab jets knocked out several of these planes in the opening of the U.N. offensive last Saturday. So far the Tshombe air force has been inactive.

Circuit Court To Open Jan. 14; List Calendar

Six criminal cases will head the calendar of the January term of Delta County Circuit Court, scheduled to open in the County Building on Monday, Jan. 14, with Judge Carroll C. Rushton of Marquette presiding.

They will include a case in which Walter Calles of Menominee is appealing a justice court conviction for driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested by State Police Sept. 26 and was convicted of the charge on Oct. 18 in justice court.

Joseph John Waeghe Jr. is also appealing a justice court conviction, but on a conservation game law violation, the illegal taking of a bear. Waeghe was arrested by Conservation Officers on Nov. 14 and when arraigned before Justice A. J. Mortier in Gladstone on Nov. 19 entered a plea of Nolo Contendere.

An Escanaba and a Bark River resident are each charged with breaking and entering of the Universal Auto Parts, located at Pine Ridge, on the night of Dec. 5. Both men, Jary Zupan of 315 N. 11th St., and James Peacock of Rte. 1, Bark River, have posted $1,000 bond.

Appeals Court Decision

Patrick Buckley of 1118 2nd Ave. S. will appear before the court on a charge of breaking and entering in the nighttime. Buckley is charged with the burglary of the Mrs. Mary Saykly home at 313 S. 12th St. on the night of Dec. 17 between the hours of 8 and 11 p.m.

Buckley was unable to post $1,000 bond and was remanded to the Delta County jail until the January term of court.

Daniel Haley of Rte. 1, Rapid River, will appeal a justice court conviction, also on a conservation game law charge. Haley was found guilty of transporting and possessing a shotgun with buckshot between the hours of sunset and sunrise in an area frequented by deer, during a closed season.

As the result of the justice court conviction he was fined $50 plus court costs, or 30 days in jail. Haley was released on $100 bond to assure his appearance in Circuit Court.

Jury Civil Cases will include:

A suit by Stegath Lumber Company of Escanaba in which they seek judgment against Orville and Angelina Hakes in the amount of $868.97 for material sold to them in August of 1957 for which they (Stegath) have not been paid.

Seek $100,000 Damages

Atlas Plywood Corp. of Massachusetts has opened suit against the Harbour Box Company of Bay View for the balance of $55,542.30. Atlas claims in their suit that the balance was due after they had sold and delivered to the Harbour company maple logs in the amount of $15,865.90. They further admit that Harbour made payments totaling $10,323.60 leaving the balance due.

Arbour claims that it does not owe this balance for the reason that the plaintiff (Atlas) is indebted to them on a contract to deliver logs to them which Atlas defaulted on. Therefore, Arbour claims that not only is Atlas's claim paid in full, but that the Atlas really owes Arbour the sum of $8,820.29.

Also included in the jury civil cases is a case by the Bowman Gas & Oil Company in which they seek judgment against Clarence A. Goodman of the Goodman Bottle Gas Co., Gladstone, in the amount of $1,760 for six gas tanks purchased from him, but which they (Bowman) claim the have not received.

In another case Roy Nelson is claiming damages against the Chatfield Machine & Foundry Company of Escanaba in the amount of $100,000 for injuries received in 1957. Nelson claims the injuries were incurred as the result of a faulty steering knuckle which was previously repaired by Chatfield.

Sues Construction Firm

He further charges that agents and employees of Chatfields assured him that they could adequately repair the broken knuckle by welding the parts together, and that when completed the parts failed to function properly.

Nelson claims that in August of 1957 while driving on County Road 426, one mile north of Watson, the steering knuckle arm cracked and broke into two pieces, causing the truck to flip end over end down the roadway. The truck was a total loss.

Lee R. Wiles, administrator of the estate of the late Elva Taylor, has opened suit against the Proksh Construction Co. of Iron River in connection with the death of Mrs. Taylor.

In the suit Wiles charges that condition of a road which was supposed to be maintained by Proksh Construction Company was a direct cause of Mrs. Taylor's death. Mrs. Taylor was a passenger in a car involved in a two-car accident Jan. 1 of 1962 near the south entrance of the four-lane highway at Gladstone.

Proksh was contracted to do the construction work on the new highway and Wiles, in his suit, claims that detour roads were not properly maintained, extremely bumpy and hazardous, which caused another car to strike the car Mrs. Taylor was riding in. Wiles is suing for $20,000.

Falls On Stairs

Travelers Insurance Co. seeks judgment against Orvil M. Valiquette in the amount of $2,511 for damage to equipment owned by John and Ronald Jaeger, co-partners in the Northern Asphalt Co., in a fire which they claim Valiquette was to blame for.

The insurance company is subrogee for the Jaegers. The suit charges that on Dec. 31, 1960 Valiquette was authorized to use a building in which the Jaeger's equipment was stored to work on his car. It further charges that Valiquette spilled gasoline on the floor of the building and that he negligently caused a backfire which caused the burning of gasoline near his car, which spread to the spilled gas, and resulted in damage to Jaeger's equipment.

Emily Mackin has opened a $50,000 suit against Werner and Betta Olson of Gladstone for injuries she received when she fell while leaving their home on the evening of Feb. 4, 1961. She claims that while leaving their home about 10:45 in the evening with a package she slipped on the rear stairs and was injured.

Non-jury cases will include:

Killed In Accident

A suit by Mary C. Osterberg in the amount of $35,000 against Gordon A. Brunette for an accident which resulted in the death of her husband, Hjalmer W. Osterberg.

Mrs. Osterberg charges that on Oct. 29, 1956 she and her husband were driving on M-35, two miles south of Rock, behind a truck driven by Brunette, when Brunette without giving a signal swung his truck to make a left-hand turn at the same time that Osterberg was in the act of passing the truck. The action resulted in a collision. As the result of injuries suffered Mr. Osterberg died.

In another case, James Dault of Iron Mountain seeks a $1,000 judgment against Orville Hakes for two septic tanks which he purchased from Hakes and which he (Dault) claims proved faulty.

Leo Alprovtz and Chester White seek judgment in the amount of $2,500 from Norbert Valind as the unpaid portion of an agreement in the purchase of the Northern Equipment Company from them.

There are also seven chancery cases on the January calendar.

Convict Turns Out License Tag That Reads 'YOU BUM'

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — A clerk at a state department of motor vehicles office opened a package Thursday, expecting to find two new California license plates inside. Instead she found three.

Perfectly impressed on the extra plate—in place of the usual combination of three letters and three numbers—was a six-letter message apparently conceived by a droll convict at Folsom Prison, where the plates are made. It said: "YOU BUM." . . .

Publishers See No End To Tieup

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal mediator has recessed indefinitely negotiations between the striking International Typographical Union's Local No. 6 and publishers of the city's nine major newspapers.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said Thursday "there has been no tangible movement" by either party.

He recessed the talks after two joint meetings, on the grounds that representatives of the printers' union and the publishers were "substantially at the same position they were at the time the strike began" 28 days ago.

"We suggested that it was time for the union to move—a substantial move—but, as is their right, the union said they were not prepared to do so at this time," Simkin said.

He said the publishers had indicated they were ready to move beyond their $9.20-a-week total offer, "but at an appropriate time."

Walther Thayer, president of the Herald Tribune, said this morning on a television program that the publishers at the moment can see no end to the strike.

Refugees Sent Back To Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—The 32 Siberian Christians who sought refuge in the American Embassy are now on their way back to Siberia, a Soviet government spokesman said today.

"They went sightseeing in Moscow Thursday afternoon," he said, "and in the evening they boarded a train which will take them back to where they came from."

The Siberians—six men, 12 women and 14 children—pushed aside Soviet police guards Thursday morning and invaded the embassy. They tearfully told American officials they were being persecuted for their religious beliefs and asked the Americans to help them get out of the Soviet Union.

The Americans patiently explained they were powerless to help. The Siberians, from peasant families, refused to budge, so Soviet authorities were notified.

Authorities arrived with a bus and finally, after arguing and pleading, got them all aboard the bus.

The peasants came from Cherenogorsk, a coal mining region about 2,100 miles east of Moscow. They described themselves as Evangelical Christians, a small sect which they said does not recognize state authority.

The Soviet press and radio has made no mention of the incident. In Washington, the U.S. State Department said it does not recognize the right of foreign missions in the United States to grant asylum to U.S. citizens or to intervene in complaints of U.S. citizens against the American government. Therefore, it was explained, U.S. missions in foreign countries refuse to grant asylum.

He handled the acts for many Midwest and Canadian fairs, for supper club dates, especially in the Detroit area, and for special events.

Wisconsin Synod Rejects Merger

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod "finds it necessary most respectfully to decline" to participate with other major Lutheran bodies in planning a new cooperative agency, a spokesman said Thursday.

Pastor Oscar J. Naumann, president of the Wisconsin Synod, said in a letter to the presidents of the Missouri Synod, The Lutheran Church in America, and The American Lutheran Church that "we are not ready to surrender our own convictions concerning the requirements for joint worship and church work."

The three larger groups, at separate conventions last year, approved a proposal to explore possibilities of forming a new Lutheran inter-church agency to succeed or replace the National Lutheran Council. The three, which represent an estimated 95 per cent of the 8.6 million Lutherans in the United States and Canada, agreed that all Lutheran groups should be invited to participate.

Pastor Nauman said that the Wisconsin Synod, which has 350,000 members, would be willing to enter the discussions "if differences in doctrine and practice which separate the various Lutheran bodies are frankly acknowledged."

Public Health Program

The report of the Delta Menominee Health Department for the past year is a statement of impressive public service. Public health services in this area are about a half century old. At first they were free contributions to the public of the physicians in the private practice of medicine. There still are such contributions, but the needs for public health service have grown to such an extent that government (by cooperative efforts of county, state and federal units) has provided a government service.

Theoretically, perhaps, there should be no need for government to get into the practice of medicine with a public health department, but practically such services are vital to the public health. The private practitioner is charged with responsibility for his own patients and the sum total of all such private practice may not add up to adequate protection of the public. It is on a volunteer basis and in such vital areas as immunology it may not give the public a safe level of protection against infectious diseases. The free weekly clinics of the health department for immunization of the public, and the periodic immunization programs among all school children make a vital contribution to the general state of local health, augmenting the broad service of immunization available through private physicians.

The medical profession recognizes this and it has honored public health service by electing one of its leaders to the presidency of the Michigan State Medical Society and by other actions. But there remains a twilight zone of ill defined relationship between the private practitioners and the public health officials. The private doctors are vigilant against what they may regard as more government inroads into the private practice of medicine and this is proper and in final judgment a protection of the public right of free choice against the empire builders of the federal government's health services.

The ideal situation is where the medical society and the public health department cooperate actively and there has been substantial progress in this relationship. It is to be hoped that there will be more and that experiments like the Delta Menominee Health Department's home nursing service will attract the active cooperation of the medical profession so that this effort to reduce medicare costs can have a fair trial. The plan can only work with doctor assignment of nurses to patients sent home from hospitals and it has been impeding for lack of referrals.

The volume of the health department's activities can be gauged by its report of 14,000 tuberculin tests administered in a year, 9,900 polio inoculations, 4,700 smallpox vaccinations, 7,670 blood tests in the summer diabetes serology campaign, etc.

No people are as well cared for healthwise today as Americans. This is a great tribute to the health services, all of them, topped by the doctors of medicine. But the great advances which have been made by medical science must be made available to everyone to be fully effective and this presents huge problems of organization. It is sometimes harder to solve the economic problem of care than to solve the scientific problem of cure. But with cooperation all around it can be accomplished.

The Doctor Says:

All Of Us Need Understanding

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q — Why would a man who is crippled with multiple sclerosis change from a sweet gentle person into a bitter moody grouchy?

A — I think that essentially the greatest need all of us has is to be understood. This is difficult because none of us is exactly like another.

You and I who do not have a crippling disease like multiple sclerosis cannot possibly know what it is like to have such a disease. We can only try to understand. I would say that the first step is to wait for one of this man's better moods and encourage him to talk about how he feels then listen very attentively, very patiently, and very quietly.

When this man is in one of his bitter moods avoid flaring up or reflecting his mood but with quiet cheerfulness try to let him know that you love him and that should he ever want to unburden his soul you are ready to listen.

Above all avoid being over-solicitous and if there are any ways in which he can help himself, let him do so.

If mechanical devices will help him to help himself, get them. If there is any way he can help others in the family, encourage him. None of this will be easy and all will not be roses, but some improvement can always be hoped for.

With the right approach improvement is bound to come.

Q — When a cataract is removed from only one eye isn't it necessary to wear a contact lens on the affected eye as well as ordinary glasses?

A — It might be desirable in some instances to wear a contact lens on the affected eye in addition to spectacles but it cannot be said to be necessary. Cataracts were adequately treated long before contact lenses were invented. Furthermore, some persons can't wear contact lenses.

Q — I read somewhere that Waterless cooking was recommended by experts in nutrition. Tell me more.

A — Waterless cooking is an inaccurate term for the use of a pressure cooker. Some water is used but since less is used than in ordinary cooking, there is less leaching out of essential nutrients. This form of cooking uses a higher temperature for a shorter period and the foods so cooked, especially meats, are more tender.

The most important advantage is that there is less exposure to oxygen and therefore less oxidation. The resulting flavor is different than that obtained with regular cooking. Most pressure cookers come with a pamphlet of full instructions on their use including suggested recipes.

Q — I am a 31-year-old housewife. Recently I have been getting a gnawing feeling in the pit of my stomach, especially after eating. I belch a lot. Is this serious?

A — The distress you describe could mean a peptic ulcer or simple indigestion. Although you say it comes on after eating you don't say how long after. If it doesn't come on until 30 to 60 minutes after eating (longer after a big meal), it is more likely due to an ulcer than if it comes on immediately after getting up from the table. The belching is more suggestive of simple indigestion, especially if it is associated with heartburn.

There are several harmless antacids on the market. Many of them contain aluminum hydroxide which will relieve either type of distress.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

SAVING COMMUNITIES

I have been reading your articles on the Upper Peninsula. Very good. Not only good, but true.

Iron River has been helping other cities and towns for years. I came here when I was very young. Lumbering was very extensive, with many lumber companies active. Each company had its own mark on each log. The logs were floated down our small rivers until they reached the Menominee River.

They had river drivers to manage the logs until they reached Menominee, where there was a large dam which would take care of the logs before they were taken to the mills to be sawed into lumber.

Who had the benefit? Not Iron River. While this went on they could have had sawmills here. The small Iron River was not small at that time.

If it was not sufficient they could have dredged the river and put in sawmills. They didn't do it. Soon after lumbering was not so extensive.

***
Mines were opened. The City of Iron River boomed for years. Now what has happened? This, we all know, is a changing world. Now what are we going to turn to? Farming is out.

My daughter, Mrs. James Gordon Roberts, and a friend from Omaha, Neb., raved about our wonderful country and how it is so diverse from Omaha, where the lakes are artificial and where there is only the muddy Missouri River.

I have traveled this U.S. much in the summer and the U.P. in my opinion surpasses them all.

***
All I can think of are paper mills. Paper mills saved Rhineland and Chippewa Falls, Wausau, and Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. All of those places were down and out until they got the paper mills, they were all old lumbering towns.

Some suggest tourist business to help us, but that season is not long enough. That bridge recently built from Canada to the Soo, will not help the U.P. tourist trade.

The much talked of board factory, if it ever is started, would not hire so many men. I am anxious to see something done. It is bad to see the mines filled with water. Isn't there any more hope? This has been my home where I have lived and worked. I hope we might find something.

Editor's Note: Upper Peninsula communities are only now beginning to seek support for their economies in a period of change through such programs as UP-AP-ARA, Project Action, etc.

It is not simple to convert a community by mining or sawmilling to other supports, but it can be done in some instances and to some degree and the present effort at planning is much more healthy than the old practice of doing nothing about a future which projected inexorable extinction for all wasting economies, such as mineral industry.

JAIL COSTS

I read in a recent publication of your paper that the Delta County Board of Supervisors has seen project to trade $12,000 of tax payers money for plans for a new jail. Yes, that is the way it reads—not $12,000 for a new jail, as would be sensible—but $12,000 for plans for a new jail.

I don't know whether this is a misprint or not.

I also don't know what kind of a jail the board has in mind. They may be planning a super jail, one that will be a model for all future jails, one that will make this area "The Jail Capital of the Nation."

I do know that a jail requires very little, if any, more planning than does a barn. It consists of one or more rows of stall-like compartments called cells. Each of these cells is of the same size and shape. If a wall between two of these cells were left out it would create a double-sized cell which could be used as a kitchen or for some other desired purpose. Likewise, if a wall were to be placed through the center of one of these cells, two half-sized cells would result. These could be used for washrooms or closets or some desired purpose.

I also know that at $3 per hour on a 40 hour weekly basis, $12,000 will pay for almost a whole year's (50) weeks planning by two men. A lot of planning can be done in this time.

In view of the foregoing it would estimate that about $11,900 of tax money has been dumped down the drain.

In a more recent issue of your paper you state that the people of the county will be asked to pay more taxes in the coming year. I can agree with your statement and I can certainly see that no trouble will be encountered by the board in using up any surplus monies.

Gladstone

(Editor's note: Jails must be built to standards of the State Department of Corrections. The Delta County Board of Supervisors contracted to pay not more than $12,000 for planning for a new jail, in two installments, one in 1962, one in 1963. Such fees are a percentage of the total estimated cost of such projects and are not calculated on hourly wage rates.)

Edson In Washington

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have made a complete reversal on past foreign service policy in putting their O. K. on a National Academy of Foreign Affairs. The big idea is that it will train personnel from all government departments in the conduct of foreign policy.

Such an idea has been kicking around Washington for years but it has always been rejected. Trying to establish a government foreign policy trade school, it was felt, would narrow the outlook of diplomats. It would set up too rigid a curriculum and put too many fixed ideas into official training. It was considered better to send rising government officials for postgraduate research and training in existing universities.

The new enthusiasm for doing the twist on this past policy and establishing a National Academy of Foreign Affairs comes from three principal sources.

A presidential advisory panel headed by Vice President James A. Perkins of the Carnegie Corp., has recommended it. A Committee on Personnel for the New Diplomacy, headed by former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, has recommended it as one point in a much broader report on foreign service reorganization requested by Rusk. Incidentally, Perkins was a member of the Herter committee, too.

But the principal impetus for this comes from a heterogeneous group of 12 senators and seven congressmen from left, right and center. For three years they have been advocating establishment of a "U. S. Freedom Academy" to educate government officials and private citizens on international communism and how to combat it.

Their ideas was to create a U. S. counterpart to the Russian political warfare schools. In short, it was to train government officials how to fight the cold war and win it.

***
One of the prime movers of this idea was Alan Grant Jr., of Orlando, Fla. Through the Council on Communist Aggression, which has considerable labor and liberal backing, Grant interested Rep. Walter Judd, R-Minn., in the idea. He interested Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S. D., and he got Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., to co-sponsor it. Together they got senators like Dodd, D-Conn.; Goldwater, R-Ariz.; Case, R-N. J., and others.

They got their Freedom Academy bill through the Senate at the end of 1960, but it died in the House. It goes no place in the last Congress, but it will come alive in the next one. A Gallup poll shows 69 per cent support, 14 per cent opposed.

So Kennedy has assigned Rusk to prepare legislation and he has assigned Under Secretary for Administration William H. Orrick Jr., formerly an assistant attorney general, Yale whiz kid and Stanford lawyer, to organize an inter-departmental group to work it out.

The administration idea is to set it up on a somewhat broader basis than the Mundt-Douglas Freedom Academy bill. The National Academy of Foreign Affairs would not do away with the War College, Annapolis, West Point of the Air Force academies. It would not even replace the State Department Foreign Service Institute or other specialist schools which have been training government officials for overseas service for some years.

***
It is Congress which will really write the ticket on this. While Congress is considering this idea, they might also take a look at a leaf from the book of Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver. He has found that a lot of his two-year volunteers would make good State Department material.

There may be the germ of an idea here for one course in the new national academy. Perhaps the way to learn to be a good diplomat is to go get the feet wet and the hands calloused by association with the common people of the underdeveloped countries of the world, instead of trying to learn how to combat communism in a lecture room or out of a book. This would be in the best tradition of the "Ugly American."

Kennedys Attend Mona Lisa Party

By The Associated Press
Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says newspapers and radio stations should carry more editorials.

Speaking at Gettysburg, Pa., at the 19th annual dinner of the Gettysburg Times & News Publishing Co., Eisenhower said: "Editorials give the reader or listener a chance to argue a given point in their own minds."

President and Mrs. Kennedy plan to attend a dinner party Jan. 8 in Washington in connection with the opening ceremonies of the exhibition of the Mona Lisa painting in the capital.

The vacation White House in Palm Beach, Fla., said the President plans to end his vacation and fly back to Washington in time for the dinner party at the French Embassy.

The loan of the famous Leonardo da Vinci painting and its exhibition in the United States were arranged by the French government.

Former actress Lita Grey, 54, and her husband, banker Pat Pizzolongo, 33, were granted permission in Superior Court in Los Angeles to change their name to Longo.

The former actress became Charlie Chaplin's second wife when she was 16. The couple, divorced in 1927, had two sons, Charles Chaplin Jr. and Sydney Chaplin.

Happy Workers Need More Than Increase In Pay

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A better-paid worker is not necessarily a happier one, says a University of Michigan researcher.

And labor unions — despite their efforts for better economic conditions — have not done all they could to solve many of the important psychological problems of work says Dr. Arnold Tannenbaum, program director of the U-M Survey Research Center.

Although economic improvement has contributed to workers' mental health Tannenbaum said, "the labor movement has repeatedly expressed aversion for efforts toward developing some of the psychological positives.

"These," he said in a recent report, "are often identified as cow sociology and manipulation techniques for exploiting the worker and undermining the power of the labor movement."

The ideal image of the working man which the labor movement provides is not that of a man enjoying his work," he added.

Labor, which is committed to elevating the status of the working man, may be fostering an attitude in the workers which is inconsistent with its position, he said.

Industrial jobs, he added, often are belittled although they're important and essential. Industrial work — often hard, dirty and dull — "provides us as a nation with opulence, comfort and the very basis of survival," he said.

Club Gives Total Of 47 Baskets

The Child's Welfare Club distributed 47 Christmas baskets to needy families on Christmas Eve and wishes to thank the service clubs, home extension clubs church women and all others who contributed to these fine baskets.

Funds to purchase food for a complete Christmas dinner plus all the trimmings were obtained through cash donations from local residents. Toys to complete the baskets were given by the Gladstone Rotary Club and the Lions Club. Local firemen repaired toys which were given for use in the baskets and many local women dressed dolls to please the little girls on the list. Members of the Women's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints made mittens to be included.

Baskets were delivered by members of the Hi-Y Club of Gladstone High School under the direction of Wallace Cameron on Christmas Eve.

Bully For Brenda

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter will be graduating from college in February. She wrote us today that she wants to join the Peace Corps.

This comes as quite a shock to us. Brenda was never very athletic and certainly not the outdoor type. From what we hear about the Peace Corps' rigorous demands, it's no place for a girl who gets her hair set and her nails manicured every week.

My husband is quite upset over this. He says it serves us right for sending Brenda to that far-out college. He thinks "saving the world" should be left to the professionals and not to a bunch of young kids.

Frankly, I know very little about the Peace Corps so I am not saying anything either way. What do you think of it for a young girl who has been raised with a silver spoon?—Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: The Peace Corps is marvelous regardless of what kind of silverware the girl was born with.

Be proud of your daughter—even if she doesn't make the grade. It takes courage to trade a plush-lined existence for two years of missionary-type sacrifice. The rewards are enormous for those who have the physical stamina and the dedication to undertake to serve in the Peace Corps. The satisfactions which come from giving of one's self and teaching the underprivileged cannot be measured. No person who has made the contribution can help but emerge fulfilled, more mature and vastly better for the experience.

are you going to have another baby?—or "How much did your living room carpeting cost?" I stop her dead in her tracks with a one word question of my own . . . "Why?"

It works like a charm and never fails to squelch the nerviest and the noisiest. Try it.—THE NEW ME

Dear New You: Thanks in behalf of the meek. Although the Bible says they shall inherit the earth, it's nice to have a little protection until the inheritance comes through.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my daughter had a child out of wedlock. I begged her to give the baby up for adoption but she said she would never forgive herself if she did such a thing.

When she came home with the baby it was the talk of the town. I tried to hold my head up and it wasn't easy.

My daughter had to go to work so I took care of her child as if he were mine. Naturally I became very much attached to him.

Three months ago she came home and told me a fellow she met at work wanted to marry her but she'd have to give the child up for adoption. I was shocked. All my pleading went in one ear and out the other. The very next week she took the baby to an agency and now I don't even know where the child is.

Is there anything I can do about this? Please say something to comfort me. I am—SICK AT HEART

Dear Sick At Heart: There is nothing you can do now. The mother has the right to decide—and she made the decision. You may find comfort in the knowledge that your grandchild is better off in a home where he has the love of both father and mother.

Confidential to Three Toed Sloth: You are not the oddball you think. We all have experienced the feeling we've been there before. Stop worrying. The phenomenon is called deja vu.

Sponsored by the Escanaba Catholic Deanery clergy, arrangements were made by a committee composed of Rev. Jordan Telles, OFM, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Escanaba and Rev. Stephen Mayrand, pastor of St. Anne's in Escanaba.

Although the program is sponsored by the Deanery, it is being offered on a non-denominational basis. Non Catholic couples who wish to attend may register at one of the parishes, at Catholic Social Services, 710 Ludington St., or at the Bishop Noa Home the night the program begins.

Registration for the first course will be limited to 30 couples. Urban Steinmetz is director of the program.

Practice of dyeing the nails was common among the ancient Egyptians.

is discussed in light style to discover the things common to all marriages and what makes a "good" and a "bad" one. A group discussion, question box, and coffee break will follow.

The second half of the session will be devoted to the "Formula for a Happy Marriage."

The course is also being sponsored by Rev. John Hughes at the Church of the American Martyrs in Kingsford, beginning Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 7 p. m. Twenty couples have registered.

"Catholic Social Services feels that building good marriages is one of its more important functions, and is willing to devote as much time as is needed to this program," said Steinmetz. Any Upper Peninsula organization that is interested in sponsoring the course for its members is asked to contact him at Catholic Social Services, Escanaba.

To Improve Highway M 28

MARQUETTE — Details of a $1,886,000 long-range program to improve Highway M 28 between Marquette and Munising were disclosed Monday by John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner.

Mackie said the program is scheduled to get under way early in 1964 and to be completed in 1966 or early in 1967.

The program will be carried out in three phases:

1. M 28 from Munising Ave. in Marquette north 1.4 miles to the north city limits is scheduled for some relocation and paving with cement concrete. This project is scheduled to be under contract early in 1964 with completion late that year or early in 1965. Estimated cost of the project is $350,000.

2. M 28 from U. S. 41 south of Marquette east 11.3 miles to the Marquette-Alger County line is scheduled to be widened to 24 feet and repaved. Bids on this project are scheduled to be let in the spring of 1964, with completion planned the same year or early in 1967. Estimated cost of the project is $367,000.

3. M 28 from the Marquette-Alger County line east 24.7 miles to the north limits of Munising is scheduled for the same treatment at the same time with approximately the same completion date. There will be some relocation of the route at the eastern two miles of this project in the Munising area. Estimated cost of the project is $1,169,000.

Deep snow and severe winter weather mark the start of the so-called "bottleneck" period for whitetails in northern Michigan, a time when deer retreat to sheltered areas. Formerly, these areas were mostly swamps where cedar, spruce, and balsam were either predominant or mixed with hardwoods. Now, because many of the swamps have been overbrowsed and no longer produce nearly enough winter food, deer are forced to range farther and farther. In effect, the winter deer range is getting bigger, but not better. This means that the fate of many deer is left to the whims of winter; the shorter the deep-snow period the better.

Trees For Fences

The days of the slatted snow fence along Minnesota highways may be numbered, according to word reaching the National Wildlife Federation. The first pilot "living snow fence" of coniferous trees was planted in Minnesota in 1939. Last year the state's highway department planted one million trees along the state's highways for beautification as well as snow control. The state furnishes trees without charge to public, nonprofit groups for conservation purposes.

Bulb In Lung

MODENA, Italy (AP) — The doctors said a severe case of influenza was making 4-year-old Maria Cristina Bertoni feel bad. Her parents insisted on an X-ray. One look at the X-ray plates and Maria Cristina was rushed to the local hospital Wednesday. A surgeon removed a small electric light bulb from one lung and said afterward she was getting along fine.

Farm Data Cards Help Management

EAST LANSING — The age of electronics has provided a rapid and efficient accounting and tax reporting system for farmers. Economists at Michigan State University have used computers and punched cards to make thousands of calculations in their farm management studies.

"But," says John Doneth, of MSU's Department of Agricultural Economics, "these electronic programs cannot hope for further growth unless they do more than merely provide an accounting service for farmers. The data must also be used to provide management education for the many and complex decisions of modern day farming."

The account program is gaining in popularity among farmers. "Under the old Michigan account book system, the farmer drop-out rate was over 20 per cent yearly," says

Doneth. Under the new program, the drop-out rate is only 7 per cent and there is strong pressure to permit new cooperators to enroll. There were 1,300 enrolled in the Michigan program last year.

"There is every indication that this system will soon be able to handle a large number of farm records more accurately and on a more complex basis than any other system today," says Doneth. He points out that a "properly organized machine center will require a large number of records to make it operate efficiently." Less than one out of 100 U. S. farmers now belongs to an organized farm record system.

MSU started the first mail-in electronic account project in 1957. More than 20 states currently have such programs now.

Farmers mail in monthly income, expense and investment information. Periodic reports are returned to the farmer showing detailed accounting of income and expenses. Annual reports are tabulated at the end of each business year.

Fertilize Browse

The National Wildlife Federation reports that two California biologists have found that fertilizers can be used effectively to increase growth and palatability of deer food plants. R. P. Gibbens and Rex D. Pieper have shown that ammonium phosphate applications cause selective thinning and browsing, improve watershed values and offer the game manager an effective tool for habitat manipulation on brush ranges where soil fertility is a limiting factor.

Farmers With $600 Income Must File Tax Return

Farmers who had gross income of $600 or more during the year, must file an income tax return even though no tax is due.

Some farmers might not have gross income of $600 or more for the year, but must file a Form 1040, which is the tax return, in order to pay the self-employment tax.

Farmers will probably want to know just what is gross income and if the self-employment tax applies to you.

The fastest and surest way to the right answer is through the Farmers Tax Guide. Get a copy from your county agricultural agent or the Internal Revenue Service office, Escanaba Federal Building.

Vacant Factories In State Decline

The winter edition of the Available Plant Summary issued by the Michigan Economic Development Department shows 2.4 million square feet of floor space was returned to productive use since the summer report was issued. Activity in the second half of the year was double the first six months of 1962 during which 1.2 million square feet of floor space was returned to use. This is a total of 3.6 million square feet for the year.

Bulk of the space returned to use in the second half was for industrial purposes. Of the total, 1.7 million square feet is now being used for industrial purposes. This is more than the entire amount put back into use in the first half of this year. Other uses in the second half were: Warehousing, 616,000 square feet; Commercial, 52,000 square feet.

These figures do not reflect new construction of an estimated 2.3 million square feet for industrial purposes; 500,000 square feet for warehousing; and 1.4 million square feet for commercial purposes. This makes a total of 7.8 million square feet for the year.

The winter edition of the Available Plant Summary shows 281 available buildings in 135 communities, a drop of 17 in the number of buildings and 7 in the number of communities since the summer edition.

Escanaba, Gladstone and Rock all listed vacant industrial buildings in the winter summary.

Pesticides Suspect

An Ohio Division of Wildlife game management supervisor recently checked a bald eagle found dead near a private lake in Warren County and speculated after autopsy and x-ray that the bird might have died as a result of eating fish which had been killed by pesticides, the National Wildlife Federation reports. The immature eagle had a 78-inch wingspread.

Every Litter Bit Helps Egg Output

EAST LANSING—Every litter bit helps—at least as far as laying hens are concerned.

Recent research shows hens lay more and higher quality eggs when housed on litter floors or in cages as compared to those housed on complete slatted floors. The experiments were conducted by H. C. Zindel, chairman of Michigan State University's poultry science department, and H. S. Johnson, formerly extension poultryman with MSU and now with the University of Illinois.

They tested 360 pullets for nearly a year under different housing conditions. Here's what they found:

1. Birds on litter floors laid 21,506 eggs—137 more than those in cages and 2,652 more than those housed completely on slatted floors.

2. Albumen quality of the eggs was significantly higher among the "litterfloor" hens.

Despite these differences, the scientist noted that the equipment depreciation cost for each dozen eggs produced was about the same for each of the three systems of laying house management.

At the end of the laying season, the caged birds were heavier than those raised on litter floors and slatted floors. Eggs from these hens were also heavier.

Both the birds housed in cages and on slatted floors produced eggs with much thicker shells than those on litter floors.

The mortality rate among the laying hens did not vary among the different housing systems in these tests.

Nixon Now Lives At Relaxed Pace

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, looking tanned and fit, is living at a relaxed pace these days—playing golf and spending more time with his family—as he ponders his future.

But his future, apparently, is just as much a question mark to the former vice president as it is to everyone else.

Robert Finch, one of Nixon's inner circle, said the man who nearly became president in 1960 is mulling this basic decision: "Should I speak out on public affairs? Or should I stay completely out of the public arena?" The answer isn't expected for months.

Not Moping
Nixon has been in seclusion since Nov. 7, when his hopes for a political comeback were shattered in a losing bid to unseat Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown. At a farewell news conference, he bitterly criticized the press and said he was quitting politics. But associates say Nixon since has been getting thousands of letters, from throughout the nation encouraging him to speak out on public issues.

An aide gave this description of Nixon's current state of mind: "He's not moping around the house, second-guessing himself or blaming anyone. He's not mad at anybody."

"Financially speaking, losing the governorship was the best thing that happened to Dick. Now he's free to consider a lot of lucrative offers."

No Job So Far

Nixon amassed a sizable financial nest-egg in recent years, chiefly from writing projects.

After the election, Nixon vacationed for three weeks in the Bahamas and Key West, Fla. He's been at home since, except for a three-day visit to New York—described by friends as a non-political trip to renew old acquaintances.

"In California," a Nixon source said, "he's regarded as the guy who got beat for the governor-ship. But he stopped traffic in New York."

Will he consider a job with a large corporation? "I don't think he's really interested in that," the source added, "but you can never turn your back on really big money."

However, Herbert G. Klein, former Nixon news secretary and once again editor of the San Diego Union, said he thinks Nixon will return to the Los Angeles law firm that he served as a consultant before he ran for governor. However, Klein added, nothing has been decided yet.

Democrats Name Ferency Liaison Man In Lansing

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Democratic Party has announced the appointment of Zolton Ferency, who served as executive secretary to former Gov. John Swainson, to a newly created party post of special assistant to the chairman for governmental affairs.

State Chairman John J. Collins said the appointment of Ferency, 40, a Detroit lawyer, is designed to "fill the void in liaison with state government left by the loss of the governor's office."

Juan Bosch, Dominican Republic's first free-election president in three decades, plans a visit to Washington following formal proclamation of his presidency.

New Programs Make TV Debuts

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two new programs will make their debuts and there will be a modest reshuffling of programs in the television network schedules during the next seven days.

Wildlife Federation To Meet in Detroit

EAST LANSING — Dr. Paul A. Herbert, president of the National Wildlife Federation, announces that the 27th annual meeting of the Federation — the world's largest conservation organization — will be held March 1-3, at the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit.

It was at Detroit, Dr. Herbert noted, that the National Wildlife Federation decided to incorporate under the District of Columbia laws as a nonprofit educational institution in 1939, when the group was four years old. The National Wildlife Federation, with headquarters at 1412 16th St., N.W. in Washington, D.C., is now supported by some two million persons including over 60,000 individual associate members.

This Corner

with Ray Crandall

We were overwhelmed by the silence that greeted our appeal for help in compiling a history of Escanaba's sports luminaries of past years for the upcoming Centennial Book. . . We received one contribution. . . How about some of those former heroes who earned fame and glory in baseball, track, boxing, football, etc.? . . Can some of our readers take a moment to jog their memories and send us a few nominations for Escanaba's all-time sports hall of fame?

Rudie Brandstrom, Manistique, is dean of basketball coaches in the Great Lakes Conference. . . Brandstrom is in his 11th year at the Emerald post. . . Next in order of length of service at his present position is Guss Lord of Stephenson in his eighth year. . . Harold Johnson, Escanaba, and Jack Taylor of Negaunee are in their seventh.

For the first time in years, Escanaba will not be the site of a district basketball tournament this spring. . . The Class B tourney, hosted in past years by Holy Name, has been shifted to the Dickinson County Armory which is the home court for both Iron Mountain and Kingsford, two of the teams that will be competing in the tournament. . . Holy Name, Stephenson and Gladstone make up the rest of the field.

Fred Boddy, former St. Joe and Escanaba prep cage great, has had fabulous success since joining the Upper Peninsula high school coaching ranks after graduating from Northern Michigan College. . . He took over the reins at Champion last season and guided the Indians to a 22-1 record. . . He has added eight victories this season for a 30-1 career record to date. . . Boddy is married to the former Kay Colvin of Escanaba.

One of the greatest coaching records in the Upper Peninsula has been compiled by Don Hill at Hermansville. . . The former Norway High School and Northern Michigan College athlete took the Redskin job in 1933-34 after coaching the Hermansville jaycee team to a 19-1 record the previous season. . . Now in his 10th season as varsity coach, Hill's teams have fashioned 150 victories against 41 defeats. . . He has never had a losing season and his Redskins have won or shared 10 state, district and conference crowns.

Bowl Business Good Business

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no business like bowl business for football teams in the Southeastern Conference. Five of the brethren participated in the holiday festivities and four won.

Alabama, Louisiana State and Mississippi, all winners, each took home a little over $100,000 as their share of the proceeds. Florida received about $90,000 from its Georgia Tech, the lone loser, to Missouri in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, went away with about $85,000.

The exact financial figures are not available in many instances but officials have given estimates of what to expect.

For instance, the final Rose Bowl figures will not be released until May. Tournament of Roses officials estimate the total should be higher than last year's $1,004,000 from all sources. After the tournament takes out 25 per cent for rent and game expenses, the remainder — approximately $750,000 is split 50-50.

Each conference gives the conference office a small amount for expenses and then divides the remainder equally among all teams in the conference. The competing teams, Wisconsin and Southern California, get no more than the other conference members. Wisconsin has to split it 10 ways in the Big Ten. There are six members in the Athletic Association of Western Universities.

As all the SEC schools get a piece of each other's bowls, Alabama, LSU and Mississippi probably will wind up with about $120,000 each.

Ferries Jumps Starter's Gun

VAIL, Colo. (AP)—Bud Werner, University of Colorado senior, and Linda Meyers, Bishop, Calif., star, scored decisive victories Thursday in the first downhill race climaxing a 2-week Olympic ski training camp here.

Werner sailed down the mile-long men's course in 61.1 seconds to finish 7-10ths of a second ahead of Dave Gorsuch of Climax, Colo. Miss Meyers zipped down the shorter women's course in 76.6 seconds to edge teammate Jean Sabert, Lakeview, Ore., and Joan Hannah, Franconia, N.H., who tied for second in 78 seconds.

Chuck Ferries of the University of Denver, Werner's stiffest challenger for U.S. Alpine skiing jumping the starter's signal. He was not timed.

The surprises were Roche Bush, University of Colorado junior, who finished third in the men's race, and Tammy Dix, Spokane, who tied for fourth and fifth with Barbara Ferries of Colorado in the women's contest.

Oakland Gets Baker Chance

OAKLAND (AP)—For an undisclosed price, the Oakland Raiders have obtained the chance to try to sign All-America Terry Baker, winner of the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding 1962 college football player.

The American Football League draft rights had been held by the San Diego Chargers, who drafted the left-handed Oregon State star 12th. The Los Angeles Rams made Baker their first choice in the National Football League draft.

Neither Oakland general manager Wes Fry nor San Diego Coach Sid Gillman would disclose what the Raiders gave up to get draft rights to Baker.

Eskey, Holy Name Play At Home

High School Cage Action Resumes In Area Tonight

High school basketball action resumes tonight after the holiday layoff with 14 teams in the Escanaba area picking up where they left off before Christmas.

Great Lakes Conference competition takes the spotlight on three fronts with Gladstone, Escanaba and Manistique hosting league foes.

Holy Name returns to the cage wars in a home stand against a Menominee Range Conference quint.

Central League teams swing back to the court tonight as do Big Eight Conference members.

Coach Bill Wood's league leading Gladstone Braves play host to the Stephenson Eagles in a Great Lakes Conference headliner. Gladstone is working on a six-game victory string and one of its victims was Stephenson, bowing 54-52 in a double overtime struggle. Overall, Coach Guss Lord's Eagles have won three and lost three.

The Braves are 5-0 in GLC action, followed by the Marquette Redmen with a 4-0 mark.

Coach Harold Johnson's Escanaba Eskymos will be out to capture their fourth conference victory in their home stand against Soo's Blue Devils tonight. Eskey is 3-1 in the GLC and 5-1 overall. The Blue Devils, under new coach Clair Wilhelm, are 2-2 in the conference.

Coach Rudie Brandstrom's Manistique Emeralds entertain the Newberry Indians in another GLC contest. The Emeralds have won three of their five starts but only one has come in conference action. Coach Art Allen's Newberry Indians have scored one victory in five games.

The Hermansville Redskins, one of six undefeated quints in the Upper Peninsula, shoot for their eighth straight triumph in a home game against Florence. Coach Don Hill's cagers share the Big Eight Conference lead with Alpha, both with 5-0 marks, while the Bobcats are 2-3 in the loop.

Bark River-Harris faces a tough task while seeking to break a season long losing streak. The Broncos host Coach Bob Kuntze's Carney Wolves tonight. Carney has won five straight after dropping its opening game to Alpha.

Coach Norman Jahn's Cooks quint plays host to winless Garden in a Central League start. Coach Dave Pelletier's Garden Jets have lost seven straight.

Eben, leader in the Central League standings with a 5-1 record, steps out of the loop to take on Republic.

Engadine will be seeking its first triumph of the season at Pickford in a Little Seven contest.

Coach Gordy LeDuc's Powers-Spalding Tigers travel to Felch needing a victory to climb over the .500 mark. They have won three and lost three to date, bowing to Hermansville and Carney in their last two outings.

Five of the Escanaba area teams are idle this weekend but will be back in action next week. They are Rapid River, Rock, Nahma, Perkins and Trenary.

Northern Quint Will Hit Road

MARQUETTE — The Northern Michigan College Wildcats, idle since their lone season loss to Aquinas Dec. 17, hope to bounce back into the win column Saturday, Jan. 5 when they meet Ferris Institute at Big Rapids before invading Peoria, Ill., for a game with the powerful Bradley Braves on Tuesday, Jan. 8.

Coach Stan Albeck's cagers will be seeking their sixth victory of the season when they meet Ferris (6-1), the state's NAIA defending champion. The Bulldogs have racked up five straight since losing to Kentucky State College here during the Northern Michigan Classic, won by Northern.

In Bradley, the Wildcats will meet a team rated 13th in the nation by the Associated Press. The Braves, who rolled up four consecutive triumphs before losing to Minnesota, will also host Tulsa Jan. 3 and North Texas Jan. 5 before meeting the Wildcats.

The Tuesday night clash will mark the third meeting between Coach Albeck and his alma mater. The NMC cagers dropped their 1960-61 game 105-77 and last year suffered a 100-76 setback.

Northern, still smarting from its Aquinas loss, will face the problem of containing 6-5 forward-center Mack Herndon, who is living up to pre-season All-American billings. The Chicago, Ill., junior, an all-NIT choice in 1960, has paced Coach Chuck Orsborn's squad to seven wins. He is averaging 23.5 points per game.

Enjoying its best start in 36 years, Northern has been paced by two Little All-American guards, Bob Armstead and Jerry Wright, and senior center Gary Silc. Armstead has averaged 16 points per game while Wright and Silc have scored more than 12 per cent. As a unit, they have averaged almost 10 rebounds apiece per game.

New Year Starts For Pro Golfers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 1963 tournament campaign of golf got under way today with the usual star-studded field—and a small army of unknowns—swinging away in the $50,000 Los Angeles Open. Traditionally the mid-winter kickoff of a new year for the professionals this 37th annual tournament winds up its 72-hole play Monday.

Among the more famous pros were U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Masters and British Open champion Arnold Palmer, the American PGA champion, Gary Player of South Africa, and the young man who won the $9,000 top money a year ago, Phil Rodgers.

The setting was the Rancho Park Golf Course in west Los Angeles, a 7,100-yard layout with par 36-35-71.

Pro And College Football Classics Set For Weekend

By The Associated Press

Football's far-flung post-season extravaganzas continue this weekend with professional and college stars in five games from Florida to Hawaii.

Two games are set for Saturday—the 14th annual Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., between North and South all-star teams, and the first Challenge Bowl at Corpus Christi, Tex., pairing stars from the Southwest Conference against players from other college squads.

On Sunday's schedule—the National Football League Playoff Bowl at Miami between runners-up in the Eastern and Western Conferences, the Pittsburgh Steelers vs. the Detroit Lions; the 17th Hula Bowl at Honolulu, matching two college all-star teams, and the first Crusade Bowl at Baltimore, which pairs off two teams made up mostly of NFL draft choices.

Fifty collegians join the pay-for-play ranks in the Senior Bowl, which will be nationally televised by NBC starting at 2 p.m. EST. Those on the winning side will receive $800 each. The losers get $500 apiece.

Players in the Challenge Bowl also turn pro, with $800 going to each member of the winning team and $600 to each loser.

The Steelers will be trying to even a score in their Playoff Bowl date with the Lions, who swamped Pittsburgh 45-7 in the regular season opener. This one will be televised by NBC at 2 p.m. EST.

A glittering parade of talent will be on display in Honolulu Sunday.

In trades after the 1962 season, Brown dealt shortstop Dick Groat to St. Louis, first baseman Dick Stuart to Boston and third baseman Don Hoak to Philadelphia.

Among the players picked up in the deals were pitcher Don Cardwell and infielder Julio Gotay from St. Louis, pitcher Don Schwall from Boston and outfielder Ted Savage from the Phils.

"We have six starting pitchers now," said Brown. "Besides Cardwell and Schwall, Danny (manager) Danny Murtaugh has Bob Friend, Al McBean, Earl Francis and Joe Gibbon to call on. And there's Roy Face, Harvey Haddix, Tom Sturdivant, Vernon Law, Bob Veale and Bob Priddy."

ORANGE SOPHOMORE STARS
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Sophomores Walley Mahle and Jim Nance led Syracuse University's football ground gainers last fall.

Quarterback Mahle from Waterford, Pa., led in passing and total offense. He also led scorers with 40 points.

Fullback Nance from Indiana, Pa., led rushers with 417 yards on 84 carries.

Musial Is Ready For Another Year

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals may never be quite as colorful when Stan Musial retires from baseball, but the change won't happen this year—and may not in 1964 either.

The 42-year-old Cardinal star signed his 22nd contract with the club Thursday and indicated from the way he feels now, he may be around at this time next year to sign No. 23.

"I've never felt better," said the trim Musial, who played in 135 games last year and hit .330, his best mark since 1958. "If I have a good year I'll keep on playing."

"I've been playing on a year-to-year basis and I'd like to keep it that way. I'd like to keep playing if I can help the team."

"My weight is down and I'm in better shape than I was last year. I think I can play 100 games again—if I'm going well."

Musial signed his first contract as a pitcher back in 1938 for $65 a month. The latest one he signed calls for an estimated $65,000, about the same as last year. This latest contract gives him a total of approximately $1,250,000, the most any player has earned in salary in baseball history.

More on his mind right now is

Al Kaline Inks Detroit Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Rightfielder Al Kaline Thursday signed his contract for 1963 with the Detroit Tigers. It marked the 11th season Kaline had been under contract with the baseball club.

Kaline, who won the American League batting championship in 1955, had a .304 batting average last season.

the two singles he needs to become the first player to total 6,900 total bases. And three more doubles will tie Babe Ruth's total of 1,356 on extra base hits.

He already holds about 50 records. He set three major league marks last season, tied one, and broke eight National League records.

Loyola Seeks Top Cage Spot

By The Associated Press

Chicago Loyola's fast-stepping Ramblers and Bradley's always-the-bridesmaid Braves are gunning for the same rival—Cincinnati.

The Ramblers, currently second to Cincinnati in the national college basketball rankings, are after that top rating. And the Braves, who've finished right behind the Bearcats in the Missouri Valley Conference for five straight seasons, are looking to shake the runner-up role this year.

Both took forward strides Thursday night. All-winning Loyola, a whirlwind 100-point-a-game outfit, went over the century mark for the seventh time in positing its 12th victory of the season, 103-58 over Marshall. Bradley opened its conference schedule with a 72-58 upset of Tulsa.

In other highlights—Miami of Florida's unbeaten Hurricanes won their ninth in a row, 67-59 over St. John's of New York; West Virginia remained atop the Southern Conference, struggling past VMI 86-74; and the Southwest Conference scramble opened with the defending co-champions, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist, having contrasting results. Tech won for the first time in nine starts this season, shading Texas Christian 69-66, while Arkansas nipped SMU 73-71.

Big Men Killing Pro Cage Game Says Gene Shue

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gene Shue of the New York Knickerbockers, a nine-year veteran of the National Basketball Association, thinks it's about time to rejuvenate the professional game.

Indicating he is at least partially in agreement with critics who say the game is dull, Shue blames tall players, excessive fouling and judgment calls by officials.

"Big men are killing the game," Shue said before Thursday night's game with the Syracuse Nationals. "We ought to take the game back outside from under the basket."

Shue, who at 6-foot-2 is one of the smaller players in the league, scored 18 points as the Knicks held off a last quarter rally and defeated Syracuse 123-115.

To help unclutter the traffic under the basket, Shue advocates taking a cue from the defunct American Basketball League and award more than two points for shots from long distances.

The ABL awarded three points for field goals of 25 feet or longer. Shue also proposed several changes to help cut down on the number of fouls, which he called "the biggest difficulty" of the pro game.

He suggested that players be ejected from the game after committing four fouls, rather than the six now allowed, and that two free throws be awarded for all fouls.

The Knicks backcourt star also suggested the rule makers spell out personal fouls more clearly, cutting down on the number of judgment calls by officials.

Bark River May Get Watershed Improvement Job

Directors of the Delta County Soil Conservation District on Thursday morning toured the Bark River from its headwaters to its outlet in Green Bay as first step to what may be a watershed development project.

The Bark River rises in two shallow, muddy lakes about two miles northwest of the village of Bark River north of U.S. 41. The little lakes are joined by a marshy overflow area and they have such soft bottoms that cattle have been lost in them, according to local settlers.

The Bark River's flow south to Green Bay is obstructed by a large drumlin, hilly glacial formation to the south, so it flows north for about two miles and then turns south around the north end of the drumlin in the Schaffer area and joins with another tributary which rises in a large swamp area northeast of Schaffer.

The two streams join just north of U.S. 2 a mile and three quarters east of Bark River. The stream then flows southerly in quite a straight course for about five miles and then parallels County Road 535, running eastward for a mile and then southward again to its Green Bay outlet near Oramel B. Fuller Park.

The river runs through some of Delta County's best farm soils and has a tendency to flood some farm fields during the spring runoff and in periods of heavy summer and fall storms. It rises very swiftly because its course is quite level and the area it drains is marked with drumlins and other high areas which speed the runoff. Flooding is also increased because it runs through many brushy areas and meanders a lot, so that debris tends to cause damming of the stream.

The stream is about 20 miles long or more and is a valuable drainage, important as a supply of water for livestock, and spray water, has esthetic value and is important recreationally as a trout stream and as duck habitat and a water supply for other wildlife.

Directors of the Soil Conservation District toured the watershed by car to see the topography, the types of land use in the area, drainage problems, flooding areas and other features. Irwin Ten Haken, of the Soil Conservation Service, led the tour and the party included Directors Daniel Barron, chairman, Flat Rock; Octave Carignan, Corneli; and Llewellyn Larson, of Danforth; and Richard Larson, soil scientist of the SCS and Joseph L. Heirman, Delta Extension director.

Some of the cooperators of the Soil Conservation District in the Bark River area lack adequate drainage outlets and Soil Conservation District work to remedy this has developed a tentative suggestion that a general benefit could be created by a watershed improvement program on the stream. It might include channel straightening in some areas, deepening in others to increase the volume of flow, debris clearing, etc.

Any such work, said Ten Haken, would have to consider the recreational value of the stream and not disturb, but rather enhance its fish habitat. Streambank plantings and other techniques could increase the capacity of the stream to support fish life and develop its general usefulness.

The stream flows through about 56 farms and about 100 land ownerships. Oddly, the stream is a reversal of the usual situation which creates most watershed problems at the mouth. The Bark in its lower mileage is in timbered lands and in rather well contained banks. It is upstream that it floods out of its course and creates problems.

The Soil District directors will discuss a watershed development project in winter meetings, and could incorporate such a project in their 1963 work program. There has never been such a project in Delta County and there has been only one in the Upper Peninsula, on the Little River, a tributary of the Menominee River in Menominee Township, Menominee County. A second watershed project on the East Branch of the Sturgeon River, a tributary of the Menominee River, in Dickinson County is in a state of development.

The Conservation Department has done some stream improvement and upland soil and water conservation practices on the Pine River, a tributary of the Menominee, in cooperation with the Dickinson County Soil Conservation District. The Conservation Department has also done stream improvement work elsewhere and has urged the desirability of entire watershed development works.

Any legal governmental district or local organization can sponsor a watershed development project and the Soil Conservation Service cooperates in many such works. Public Law 566, the Small Watershed Act, provides benefits based on a cost-benefits ratio. To qualify for such federal aid the development project must show agricultural aid in drainage and flood prevention, and provide public benefits.

A Report On The Developments Within Our Bank During 1962

The coming 1963 Centennial Celebration, marking the 100th year since the founding of the City of Escanaba, reminds us that for 92 of these past 100 years, the First National Bank of Escanaba has without interruption provided banking service to the residents of Delta County. Never once during these years has the financial strength-security of First National been questioned. Our desire to earn and keep the good will of our customers and public has been demonstrated many times in many ways during this same span of years.

Over the years, those who have been associated with First National have taken great pride in the many "Service Extras" that have become exclusive with our way of operation. These "extras" are a routine part of the development of our bank.

● In 1962, and for the first time in Escanaba, First National became the first bank to develop and introduce an exclusive Junior Savings Department, and companion Junior Banker Club, just for the youngsters of the area. This "extra" measure of service was designed to help teach our Escanaba children the value of money, and the proper way of managing their money.

● In 1962, and for the first time in Escanaba, First National became the first bank to give valuable trading stamps to each new Christmas Club saver. This "extra" service will be repeated in 1963 and is of definite monetary value to each person opening and completing a First National Christmas Club account.

● In 1962, and for the first time in Escanaba, First National became the first bank to create and sponsor a Dress-a-Doll Contest for the benefit of those in need at Christmas Time. A great number of area enthusiasts designed and sewed costumes in which these dolls were dressed. Prizes were awarded to those chosen as best of design at a special judging. After a public showing the dolls were donated by the bank for distribution through a reputable social agency to needy families of the area. We expect this to be an annual "extra" at First National.

● In 1962, First National was tied for first place among Michigan banks in the order of joining the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority to offer loans to worthy college students for the completion of college and post-graduate training. Another "extra", which we will be glad to discuss with you.

● In 1962, First National obtained Federal authority to serve you even more completely - with full powers to act as Trustee, Executor, Administrator, Guardian, Assignee, Receiver and in other fiduciary capacities. Having the authority and experience to exercise these powers for those needing such services adds to our ability to serve you even more completely. Your inquiries are invited concerning this "extra" service.

For eleven years we have mailed to farmers in Delta and adjoining counties the publication "Farming For Profits", and the Michigan State University farm account book. We have always believed in extra service to our farmer customers and friends. If we have omitted you, Mister Farmer, from our mailing list, let us know.

All of these, and many other "extras", cost us money. They're well worth our investment if they help to convince you that we mean to give extra service, politeness, friendliness and consideration to all in the years ahead. These are our aims for 1963 and beyond.

We've been talking about "extra services" we have for you. Now, about an extra from you which we appreciate. You increased your deposits with us by $1,160,000.00 in 1962. For this we thank you.

To you from all of us, A Happy, Peaceful, Prosperous New Year in 1963, and please stop in whenever we can be helpful.

John L. Greene
